Whoever travels through any of the New Eng-land States, and twige as he journies, the eccentricities of some of the satises cannot fail to be amused; and may, if he choose, derive many new ideas in respect to stymology and diversity of char-

Some years since, an acquaintance of ours set out, on horseback, from the Eastern part of Massachusetts for the Green Mountains of Vermont. While travelling through the town of New Salem, his road led into a piece of woods, of some five miles in length, and long before he got out of it, he began to outertain doubts whether he should ever be blest with the sight of a human habitation; but as all things must have an end, so at last had the woods, and the nut brown house of a farmer greeted his vision. Near the road was a tall, rawboned, overgrown, lantern jawed boy, probably seventeen years of age, digging potatoes; he was a curious figure to behold. What was lacking in the length of his tow breeches, was amply unde up for behind; his suspenders appeared to be composed of birch bark, grape vine and sheep skin; and as for his hat, which was of dingy white-felt—poor thing! it had once evidently seen bettter days, but now, slas! it was only the shadow of its glory. Whether the tempests of time had beaten the top for the lad's examine groups had burst if out. but now, alas! it was only the shadow of its glory. Whether the tempests of time had beaten the top in, or the lad's expanding genius had burst it out, was difficult to tell; at any rate it was missing—and through the aperture, red hairs in abundance stood six ways for Sunday. In short, he was one of the roughest specimens of domestic manufacture that ever mortal beheld. THE TEETH.

Attention to the cleansing of the teeth cannot be inculcated in the young at too early an age.— Whether the tempests of time had beaten the top is, or the lade expanding genius had burst it out, was difficult to tell; at any raie it was missing—and through the aperture, red hairs in abandance stood six ways for Sunday. In short, he was one of the roughest specimens of domestic manufacture that ever mortal beheld. Our travelling friend, feeling an itching to scrape an acquaintance with the critter, drew up the reins of his horse, and began:

"Hallo, my good friend, can you inform me how far it is to the next house?"

Jonathau started up—leaned on his hoc handle—rested one foot on the gambril of his einister lag, and replied:

"Hullo yourself,! boe'd dew?—wall, i just can. Pellow Citizens of the Senate and House of Represe

Our devout gratitude is due to the Supren ing for having graciously continued to our believed country, through the viciositudes of another year, the invaluable pleasings of health, pleasy and peace. Seldom has this favored land beau to generally exempted from the ravages of disease, or the labor of the husbandiana more amply rewarded; and never before have our relations with other countries been fore have our relations with other cou placed on a more favorable basis than that which they so happily occupy at this critical conju-in the affairs of the world. A rigid and per abstinence from all interference with the do-the and political relations of other States, alike Government, and to the principles by which it is directed; a faithful observance, in the manage-ment of our foreign relations, of the practice of speaking plainly, dealing justly, and requiring truth and justice in return, as the best conservatives of the peace of nations, a strict imparitality in our manifestations of friendship, in the co-mercial privileges we concerte, and those we require from others: these, accommand by a disposition as others: these, accompanied by a disposition as prompt to maintain, in every emergency, our own round to maintain, in every emergency, our own rights, as we are from principle averee to the invasion of those of others, have given to our country and Government a standing in the great family of nations, of which we have just cause to be proud, and the advantages of which are experienced by our critizens throughout every portion of the earth to which their enterprising and advanturous spirit may carry them. Few, if any, remain insensible to the value of our friendship, or ignorant of the terms on which it can be accurated and by insensible to the value of our friendship, or ignorant of the terms on which it can be acquired, and by which it alone can be preserved.

A series of questions of long standing, difficult A series of questions of long stations, under in their adjustment, and important, in their conse-quences, in which the rights of our citizens and the honor of the country were deeply involved, have, in the course of a few years, (the most of them during the successful Administration of my them during the successful Administration of my immediate predecessor,) been brought to a satis factory conclusion; and the most important of those remaining are, I am happy to believe, in a fair way of being speedily and satisfactorily ad-

With all the Powers of the world our relatio are those of honorable peace. Since your adjournment, nothing serious has occurred to interrupt or threaten this desirable harmony. If clouds lowered above the other hem bere, they have not cast their portentous shadows upon our happy shores. Bound by no entangling alliances, yet linked by a common nature and interest with the other nations of mankind, our aspirations are the other nations of mankind, our apprations are for the preservation of peace, in whose solid and civilizing triumphs all may participate with a generous emulation. Yet it behooves us to be propared for any event, and to be always ready to maintain those just and onlightened principles of national interest, for which this Government has ever contended. In the shock of contending emover contended. In the stock of contending em-pires, it is only by assuming a resolute bearing, and clothing themselves with defensive armor, that neutral nations can maintain their independent

The excitement which grew out of the Territo The excitement which grew out of the Territorial controversy between the United States and Great Brittein having in a great measure subsided, it is hoped that a theorable period is approaching for its final settlement. Both Governments must now be convinced of the dangers with which the question is fraught; and it must be their desire, as it is their interest, that this perpetual cause of irritation should be removed as speedily as practicable. In my last annual message you were informed that the proposition for a commission of exploration and survey primised by Great Britain had been received, and that a counter project, including also a provision for the certain and inal adjustment of the limits in dispute, was then becluding also a provision for the certain and final fjustment of the limits in dispute, was then be-re the British Government for its consideration. and snewer or that tovernment, accompanied by additional propositions of its own, was received, through its minister here, since your separation. remment.

The commissioners, appointed in pursuance of the convention between the United States and Tegas, for making the boundary between them, have, according to the last report received from our commissioner, surveyed and established the whole extent of the boundary north along the Western bank of the Subine river, from its entrance into the Gulf of Mexico to the thirty-second degree of north latitude. The commission adjourned on the north latitude. The commission adjourned on the lot of June last, to re-assemble on the lat November, for the purpose of establishing accurately the intersection of the thirty-second degree of latitude with the western bank of the Sabin and meridian line thence to Red river. It is presumed that the work will be concluded in the present section.

The present sound condition of their finance and the success with which embarranes and in The present sound condition of their finances, and the success with which embarrassments in regard to them, at times apparently insurmountable, have been overcome, are matters upon which the people and Government of the United States may well congratulate themselves. An overflowing treasury, however it may be regarded as an avidence of public presperity, is seldom conducive to the permanent welfare of any people; and superience has demonstrated its incompatibility with the substary action of political institutions like those ence has demonstrated its incompatibility with the salutary action of political institutions like those of the United States. Our safest reliance for financial efficiency and independence has, on the contrary, been found to consist in ample resources unencumbered with debt; and in this respect, the Poderal Government occupies a singularly fortu-nate and truly envisible position.

When I entered upon the discharge of my offi-cial duties in March, 1837, the act for the distrisome of the points raised in the discussion, felt it to be his duty to refer the matter to his own Go mere the points at the control of the control of the control of the points still in difference, and the undoubted disposition of both parties to bring the matter to an early conclusion. I look with an entire confidence to a prompt and satisfactory termination of the negotiation. Three commissioners were appointed shortly after the adjournment of Congress, under the act of the last session providing for the exploration and survey of the line which separates the States of Maine and New Hampshire from the British Provinces; they have been actively employed until their progress was interrupted by the inclemency of the season, and will resume their labors as soon as practicable in the ensuing year.

It is understood that their respective examinations will throw new light upon the subject in controversy, and serve to remove any erroneous time to subject to the rights of the U. States. It was among other reasons, with a view of preventing the subportion the decrease in the respective examinations will throw new light upon the subject in controversy, and serve to remove any erroneous time of the control of the comment of the control of the comment of the

as of these circumstances, one, not the least hing, is the consciousness that the Government his resolution and ability to adhere, in every gency, to the mered obligations of law; to see all its continuous according to the requirement of the matitution, and thus to present, when teneded, a ratiging point, by which the businessed, a ratiging point, by which the businessed according and and a result vitally strain as well to the interests as to the morals of scople. There may surely now be no different of opinion in regard to the incalculable evitants of the force of the scool have arriers of the Government, at that es one, not the least oppior in regard to the incalculable evil-abilities arises if the Government, at that moment, had suffered itself to be deterred pholding the only true standard of value, by the pressure of adverse circumstances or hence of numerited dominication. The man-shich the people sustained the performance dary was highly biosorable to their forth-deterreture. I Comme fail to stimulate and patriotism. If caunct full to stimulate agents to adhere, under all circumstances, to me of duty; and to satisfy them of the safety which a course really right, and demanded by the a course really right, and demanded by all crists, may ain a community like ours and however apparently severe its unuse og as rapidly as possible the national debt, equently, in resisting every temptation to new one, descrives to be regarded in the brable light. Among the many objections and debt, the certain tendency of public to concentrate ultimately in the coffers stockholders, is one which is every day streighboliers, is one which is every day erength. Already hav the resources of the States, and the future industry of the states, and the future industry of the open Governments, to the amount millions amountly, to pay the constantly interest on borrowed money—a sum ex-laif the ordinary revenues of the whole tes. The pretext which this relation foreigners to scrutinize the management mestic affairs, if not actually to intermed n, presents a subject for enroest at lo nev of serious alarm. Foctunately

the Federal Government, with the exception of an obligation entered into in behalf of the District of Columbia, which must soon be discharged, is wholly exempt from any such embarrasses. It is also, as is believed, the only Government which, having fully and furthfully puid all its creditors, has also relieved itself entirely from debt. It is minimal a distinction so desirable, and so him and to our autional character, should be an object of camest solicitade. Never should a free people, if it he possible to avoid it, expose themselves to the necessity of having to treat of the peace, the hour or the safety of the Republic, with the Governments of foreign creditors, who, however well disposed they may be to cultivate with us in general friendly relations, are nevertheneral friendly relations, are neverthe s law of their own condition, made hos-success and permanency of political in-the ours. Most humilisting may be the pents consequent upon such a condition, bjection, scarcely less formidable to the ew debt, is its inevitable mignitude, and to foster extravagance. He has been an upprofitaendent on loans to sustain its or-nures, has to encounter in resisting officences constantly exerted in favor of additionable contractions by capitalists, who certed the ancives and success. I can say, with confidence, and success. I can say, with confidence, the maney they actually advance—a property of individual aggrandizement in all assignments; by stockholders, who seek agains in the rise and fail of public stocks; by the selfish importantities of applicants for operations for works avowedly for the accompanion of the public, but the real objects of the net too frequently the advancement of primiterests. The known necessity which so the public will be under to impose taxes the payment of the interest on their debts have an additional and very cogent reason. I have deemed this brief summary of our fiscal uffairs necessary to the due performance of a duty uffairs necessary to the due performance of a duty uffairs necessary to the due performance of a duty uffairs necessary to the due performance of a duty would be exposed to double taxation for a similar chief. We possess within ourselves ample returned the country and the country of the countr cause of constitutional duties may certainly, under such executive has been agained ever since the country has been agained ever since the country has been agained ever since the depth of the Constitution, in a great measure originated; and there is too much reason to appreciate originated. It has, it is seen, been avoided during four prehend that the conflicting interests and the opposing principles thus ourstanded, will continue, as a surfactors, to produce similar if not aggravativition, and one also remarkable for the occurrence of extraordinary causes of expenditures.

Coming into office the declared enemy of both.

But to accomplish so desirable an object, two I have carnestly endeavored to prevent a resort to things are indiagensable: first, that the action of the Federal Government be kept within the holy.

The consideration that a large public dobi effords things are indispensable; first, that the action of the Federal Government be kept within the body during prescribed by its founders; and, secondly, that all appropriations for objects admitted to be constitutional, and the expenditure of them also, he subjected to a standard of rigid but well considered and practical economy. The first depends chiefly on the people themselves, the opinions they for not the true construction of the Constitutions, and the confidence they repose in the political sentiments of those they select as their representatives in the Federal Legislature; the second rests upon the fidelity with which their more immediate representatives and other public functionaries, dur-forge the trusts committed to the of. The stay, of economizing the expenses of the public service is admitted on all hands; yet there are low subjects upon which there exists a wider difference of quairon them is constantly manufacied in regard to the fidelity with which that duty is discharged. Nather discretive, and is so, pushly sensitive can well be accirally avoided; and least so at periods of great credit was exhausted, and the people were no credit was exhausted, and the people were no

The sudden and rapid distance have in functional three dinners and the equally sudden and unprecedented severe revulsion in the occurrence and husiness of the country, pointing with merring certainty to a great and protracted reduction of the revenue, extremely the propriety of the earliest practicable reduction of the public expenditures.

But, to change a system operating upon a least of the propriety of the carliest practicable reduction of the public expenditures.

cable reduction of the public expenditures.

But, to change a system operating upon so large a surface, and applicable to such numerous and diversified interests and objects, was more than the work of a day. The attention of every department of the Government was immodiately, and in a good faith, directed to that end; and has been so continued to the present moment. The estimates and appropriations for the year 1838 (the first over which I had any control,) were somewhat diminished. The expenditures of 1839 were reduced six initious of dollars. Those of 1840, exclusive of disparsements for public debt and trust chirms, of disbursements for public debt and trust chims will probably not exceed twenty two and a half mil millions; being between two and three mil-ficus less than those of the preceding year, and nine or ten less than those of 1837. Nor has it been found necessary, in enter to produce this result, to resort to the power conterred by Congress, of postponing certain classes of the gress, of postponing certain classes of the public works, except by deferring expenditures for a short period upon a limited portion of them; and which postponement terminated some time since at the moment the Trensury Department, by turther receipts from the indebted Banks, became fully assured of its ability to meet them without prejudice to the public service in other respects. Causes are in operation which will, it is believed, justify a still further reduction, without injury to any important national interest. The expenses of suctaining the troops employed in Florida have been gradually and greatly reduced, through the per-severing elloris of the War Department; and a reasonable hope may be entertained that the necessity for maistary operation in that quarter will soon cease. The removal of the ludians from soon cease. The removal of the Indians from within our settled borders is nearly completed. The pension list, one of the heaviest charges upon the Treasury, is rapidly diminishing by death. The most costly of our public buildings are either finished or nearly so, and we may. I think, agely promise ourseives a continued exemption from order difficulties.

The available balance in the Treasury on the lst Jamery next, is estimated at one million and a helf of dollars. This sum, with the expected receipts from all sources, during the next year, ill, it is believed, be sufficient to emble th Government to meet every engagement, and leave a suitable balance in the Treasury at the end of the year; if the remedial measures connected with the custome and the public lands, heretofore re-commended, shall be adopted, and the new appro-priations by Congress shall not carry the expendi-ture beyond the official estimates.

The new system established by Congress for the safe keeping of the public money, prescribing the kind of currency to be received for the public revenue, and providing additional guards and security a against losses, has now been several mouths in operation. Although it might be premature, uson an experience of such limited duration, to form a definite opinion in regard to the extent of its influences in correcting many evils under which the Federal Government and the country have hitherto suffered—especially those that have grown out of banking expansions, a depreciated currency, and official defalcations; yet it is but right to say that nothing has occurred in the practical operation of the system to weaken in the slightest degree, but much to strengthen, the confident anticipations of its friends. The grounds of these have been, heretofore, so fully grounds of these have been, normone, explained, as to require no recapitulation. In respect to the facility and convenience it affords in the million respect to the facility and convenience it affords in conducting the public service, and the ability of the Government to discharge through its agency every duty attendant on the collection transfer, and disburgement of the public money with promp titude and success, I can say, with confidence an additional and very cogent reason flairs necessary to the doe performance of a daty specially espained upon me by the Constitution. It is national debt, by which the people will serve, also, to illustrate more fully the principal exposed to double taxation for a similar ples by which I have been guided in reference to two contested points in our public policy, which listed by the framers of the Constitution as in accomplished without a resort to permompatible with the rights of the States and the or the aid of a National Bank; have we compatible with the rights of the State and the liberties of the people; if, from the beginning, it has been regarded by large portions of calizans as coming in direct collision with that great and vital amenature of the Constitution, which declares that an powers not conferred by that instrument on the General Government are reserved to the States and to the people; if it has been viewed by them as the first great step in the march of latin dinnus construction, which, unchecked, would reader that sacred instrument of as lattle value as an der that sacred instrument of as little value as an swritten constitution, dependent, as it would alo der that secred instroment of as little vanie as all unwritten constitution, dependent, as it would alone be, for its meaning, on the interested interpretation of a dominant party, and affording no security to the rights of the minority;—if such is undeniably the case, what rational grounds could have been conceived for anticipating aught but determined opposition to such an institution at the present day? Could a different result have been expected, when the consequences which have flowed from its creation and particularly from its struggles to perpetuate its existence, had confirmed, in so striking a manner, the apprehensions of its variest opponents; when it had been so clearly demonstrated that a concentrated money power, wielding so vast a capital, and combining such incalculable means of influence, may, in those peculiar conjunctions to which this Government is unavoidably exposed, prove an overmatch for the political power of the people thermselves; when the true character of its empacity to regulate, according to its will and its capacity to regulate, according to its will and its interests, and the interests of its favorites, the valte and production of the labor and property of every man in this extended country, had been so fully and fearfully developed; when it was notorifully and learfully developed; when it was notori-only that all classes of this great community had, by means of the power and influence it thus pos-sesses, been infected to mediess with a spirit of heedless speculation, when it had been seen that, scare in the combination of influences by which it was surrounded, it could violate its charter, and set the jaws at defiance with impunity; and when too, it has become most apparent that to believe that such an accumulation of powers can ever be granted without the certainty of being abused, was granted without the certainty of being acused, was to include in a fittal delusion!

To regul the necessity of a permanent debt, and its inevitable consequences. I have advocated, and endeavored to carry into effect, the policy of confining the appropriations for the public service to such objects only as are clearly within the constitutional authority of the Federal Government; of excluding from its expenses those improvident and unauthorized grants of public money for works of intermi improvement, which were so wisely a rest-ed by the constitutional interposition of my prede-cessor, and which, if they had not been checked, cessor, and which, if they had not been checken, would long before this time have involved the finances of the General Government in embarrans ments far greater than those which are now experienced by any of the States; of limiting all our mosteriations, fin expenditures to that simple, unostentations, for economical administration of public affairs, which is alone consistent with the character of our institutions; of collecting annually from the cust and the sales of public lands; a revenue fully quate to defray all the expenses thus incurred, but under no pretence whatsoever, to impose taxes upor the people to a greater amount than was actually

In lieu of a National Bank, or a dependence upon Banks of any description, for the management of our fiscal afturs, I recommended the adoption of the system which is now in successful operation. That system affords every requisite facility for the transaction of the pecuniary confidents. cerns of the Government; will, it is confidently anticipated, produce is other respects many of the benefits which have been from time to time expected have never been realized; avoid the manifold evilm such an institution; diminish, to greater extent than could be accomplished by any ther measure of reform, the patronage of the Government—a wase policy in all Governments, but more aspecially so in one like ours, which works well only in proportion as it is made to rely all dependence on corporate bodies, either in the raising, collecting, safe keeping, or disbursing the public revenues; and place the Government equaly above the templation of festering a dangerous and unconstitutional institution at home or the necessity of adapting its policy to the views and interests of a still more formidable money power ples, under circumstances the most arduous and discouraging, that the attempt has been made thus lar surcessfully, to demonstrate to the people of the United States, that a National Bank at all times, and a National bebt, except it be incurred tion demand the temporary sacrifice of a which should only be abandoned in such exig of a policy, are not merely unnecessary, but in direct and deadly hostility to the principles of their Government and to their own permanent welfare.

The progress made in the development of these estitions, appears in the preceding sketch of the past history and present state of the financial concerns of the Federal Government. The facts there stated fully authorize the assertion, that all the stated fully authorize the assertion, that an anopurposes for which the Government was instituted have been accomplished during four years of great or pecuniary emberrasament than were before experienced in time of peace, and in the face of appointment of the state sition as formidable as any that was ever before arrayed against the policy of an Administration; that this is no been done when the ordinary revenues of the Government were generally degreesing, as well from the operations of the laws, as the con-

To suppose it necessary now to trace these reverses to their sources would be a reflection on the intelligence of my fellow-citizens. Whatever may have been the obscurity in which the subject was involved during the earlier stages of the revulsion, there cannot come be search by whom the whole constant

Not deeming it within the constitutional powers of the General Government to repair private losses sustained by teveres in business having no connexuon with the public service, either by direct appropriations from the Treasury, or by special legislation designed to secure exclusive privileges and immunities to individuals or classes in preference to, and at the expense of the great majority necessarian to the contract of the c ignite to do so has been either made, recommended, or encouraged, by the present Executive. It is believed, however, that the great purposes for the attainment of which the Pederal Government was instituted, have not been lost sight of.—Intrusted only with certain limited, powers, cubicustly enumerated, distinctly specified, and defined with a precision and clearness which would seem o defy misconstruction, it has been my constant in to confine myself within the limits so clearly marked out, and so carefully guarded. Baving al-ways been of opinion that the best preservative of the Union of the States is to be found in a total abstince from the exercise of all doubtful powers on the part of the Federal Government, rather than in attempts to assume them by a loose construction of the Constitution, or an ingenious perversion of its words, I have endeavored to avoid recommending any measure which I had reason to apprehend would, in the opinion even of a considerable mi-sority of my fellow citizen, be regarded as trench nority of my tellow citizens, be regarded as trenching on the rights of the States, or the provisions of the hallowed instrument of our Union. Viewing the aggregate powers of the Federal Government as a voluntary concession of the States, it seems to me that such only should be exercised as were at the time intended to be given.

I have been strengthened too, in the propriety of this course, by the conviction that all efforts to go beyond this, tend only to produce dissatisfaction and distrust, to excite jealousies, and to provoke resistance. Instead of adding strength to the Federal Government, even when successful, they must ever prove a source of incurable weakness, by alienating a portion of those whose adhesion is indispensable. to the great aggregate of united strength, and whose othe great aggregated united strength, and whose coluntary attachment is, in my setimation, far more sesontial to the efficiency of a government strong in the best of all possible strength—the confrience and attachment of all those who make up its con-

Thus believing, it has been my purpose to se cure to the whole people, and to every member of the confederacy, by general, salutary, and equal laws alone, the benefit of those republican institutions which it was the end and aim of the Constitu-tion to establish, and the impartial influence of which is, in my judgment, indispensable to their preservation. I cannot bring myself to believe that the lasting happiness of the people, the prosperity of the States, or the permanency of their Union, can be maintained by giving preference or priority to any class of citizens in the distribution of benefits or privileges, or by the adoption of measures which enrich one portion of the Union at the ex-pense of another; nor can I see in the interference of the Federal Government with the local legisla-tion and reserved rights of the States, a remedy for present, or a security against future, dangers.

The first, and assuredly not the least, important step towards reheving the country from the condition into which it had been plunged by excesses in trade, banking, and credits of all kinds, was to place the business transactions of the Government itself on a solid basis; giving and receiving in all cases value for value, and neither countenancing nor en-couraging in others that delusive system of credits from which it has been found so difficult to escape nd which has left nothing behind it but the wrecks hat mark its fatal career.

That the fionucial affairs of the Gove

now, and have been during the whole period of these wide spread difficulties, conducted with a strict and invariable regard to this great fundamental principle, and that by the assumption and maintenance of the stand thus taken on the very threshold of the approaching crisis, more than by been shielded from the incalculable evils of a general and indefinite suspension of specie payments. and a consequent annihilation, for the whole period it might have lasted, of a just and invariable stan-dard of value, will, it is believed, at this period, scarcely be questioned.

A steady adherence, on the part of the Government, to the policy which has produced such saluta-ry results, anded by judicious State legislation, and, what is not less unnortant, by the industry, enter-prise, perseverance and economy of the American people, cannot fail to raise the whole country, at an early period, to a state of solid and enduring pros carry period, to a state of solid and enduring pros-perity, not subject to be again overthroun by the suspension of banks or the explorion of a bloated credit system. It is for the people, and their re-presentatives to decide whether or not the permanent welfare of the country (which all good cirizer) equally desire however widely they may differ as to the means of its accomplishment) shall be in this well from the operations of the laws, as the condition of the country, without the creation of a permanent public debt, or incurring any liability, other than such as the ordinary resources of the Government will speedily discharge, and without the agoncy of a National Bank.

If this view of the proceedings of the Government, for the period-it embraces, he warranted by the facts as they are known to exist; if the army and navy have been sustained to the full extent an thorized by law, and which Congress decemed and the intention of the representation of the represen reached the seat of Government, every effort at to have been made to reinforce General Clinch, we commanded the troops then in Plorida. General Essaws despatched with reinforcements from Charlest troops were called from Alabama, Tennesses Georgia; and General Scott was sent to take the command—with ample power and ample mean. At this statement, Gen. Gaines organized a force at New Orleans, and, without waiting for orders, landed in Plenda, where he delivered over the troops he had broad with him to Gen. Scott.

Governor Call was subsequently appointed to end duct a summer campaign, and at the close of it was a placed by General Jesup. These events and chass took place under the Administration of my preduces. Notwithstanding the exertions of the experienced of cers who had commanded there for eigniteen much on entering upon the administration of the Governoer I found the Territory of Florida a prey to Indias with cities. A streamone effort was immediately made through these hostilities to a close, and the army, under the sendent ment of the campaign as great amplies every description. At this campaign a great ample the energy were captured and destroyed but in the order of the energy were captured and destroyed but in the order of the energy were captured and destroyed but in the order of the energy were captured and destroyed but in the order of the energy were captured and destroyed but in the command of the energy were captured and destroyed but in the captured and destroyed but in the captured and destroyed best of the energy were captured and destroyed by the contract of the energy were captured and destroyed by the captured and captured to the captured and destroyed by the captured and captured to the captured and captured to the captured and captured to the captured and cities. A streamous sflort was immeniately made to bring these hostilities to a close, and the array, user Gen. Jesup, was reinforced until it amouned to be thousand men, and turnished with abundant supplies of the enemy were captured and destroyed; but the character of the contest was only changed. The hoise, having been defeated in every engagement, dispersed in small bands, throughout the country, and become an enterprising, formidable and ruthless banding General Taylor, who succeided General Jesup, each his best exertions to subdue them, and was secondariable in effects by the officers under his command; but his efforts by the officers onder his command; but hoo, sailed to protect the Turnitory from their devictions. miny senson, these vessels returned to use United States for supplies, and have since been despatched on a similar service.

From the reports of the commanding officers, it appars that the trade is now principally carried on under Portuguese colors; and they express the opinion that the apprehension of their presence on the slave coath has, in a great degree, arrested the prestution of the American flag, to this inhumane purpose. It is to be haped that, by continuing to maintain this force in that quarter, and by the exertions of the officers in command, much will be done to put a stop to whatever portion of mis traffic may have been carried on under the American flag, and to prevent its use in a trade which, while it volutes the laws, is equally an outrage on the rights of others and the teelings of humanity. The efforts of the several Governments who are anxiously seeking to suppress this traffic must, however, be directed against the facilities afforded by what are now recognized as legitimate commercial pursuits before that object can be folly secomplished. Supplies of provisions, water-casts, merchandize, and srticles connected with 'the prosecution of the slave trade, are, it is understood, freely carried by vessels of different autions to the slave factories? and the effects of the factors are transported only from one slave station to another, withing interruption or punishment by either of the nations to which the belong, engagedain the commerce of that region. I submit to your judgments whether this Government, having been the first to profibility sudequate penaltics, the slave-trade—the first to declare it piracy—should not to the first, also, to forbit to its citzens all trade with the slave factories on the coas of Africa; giving an example to all nations in this respect, which, if fair-results in breaking up those does of iniquity.

The debute in the Senate upon the question of laternal Improvements, has excited no small common in our legislative halls. It has led to discourses which certainly reflect no great credit on he." Whig " party, and evinced a feeling which shows any thing but harm my in their ranks. The division of the "spoils," the honors and emoluments of place and office, are likely to force this chickle party to declare, what every one, with driotic party to declare, what every one, with the smallest ponetration must have lorescen—that there exists in the "Whig" ranks a feeling of realry and batted amongst the leaders, which must somer or later show itself. Mr. Shepard, who has heretofore been one of

Mr. Shepard, who has heretoors been one of the warm relocates for Internal Improvements, swored his ture opposition to all measures of the kind; because as he says, ms own section of the Sate has not only been overlooked, but sacrificed by his western "Whig" brethren. He referred to the election of United States Seontors, and to to the election of United States Senators, and to the Caucas by which that electron had been controlled and governed. That whilst the "Whig" party and denounced Caucases and Conventions as accompatible with a representative government, and as taking from the people and their agents the free exercise of their will, the "Whigs" in power and as taking from the people and their agents the tore exercise of their will, the "Whige" in power are now practising the very things they have so the enemity condemned. That it was proposed in Caucus to make the United States Bank, the public leads, and the improvement of Naga head, test questions. This being overruled, it was next cropused that a Senator should be elected from the Last and West, which was also vited down.—That after the selection of Mr. Mangum as one of the candidates, it was then proposed to leave the other to the free choice of the Legislature, which was also voted down by a majority. That having selected the two candidates of the party—by way of soothing the feelings of a certain distinguished autheman, a resolution was adopted, recommending him to Gen. Harrison for the office of Attoring General. A gentleman, as Mr. Shepard correctly remarked, who is now held up as a true the office of Mr. Shepard forced his brother Whige Republican, doubly refined in the die of Daniel Webster.

These exposures on the part of Mr. Shepard forced his brother Whigs to an explanation. Accordingly, Mr. Olingman, after taking a night to contain the dien of particle of the contain the dien what had been said by Mr. Shepard, but indulged in coarse and personal invective, and log claim anecolous, entirally beingath the dientity of the Senate. He read Mr. Shepard out from the Whig "church; bid hum." good morning," and expressed his gratification that he had taken leave of their party, and charged him, in the most disciplination and disappointment, in the course he had taken.

The rejoinder of Mr. Shepard was warm, though disappointment, in the contrasting his former course with that of Mr. Mangum, he certainly seved much more coussistency on his part, than but the "Whig" party in the support of that couleman. Mr. Shepard had voted for the research of the United States Bank charter; Mr. Mangum against it; he had voted for Mr. Clay's land Bill, Mr. Mangum against it; he had supported laternal Improvements, Mr. Mangum, on the contrary, in his "confession of faith," from which Mr. Shepard read, said he had never voted for any improvement without the District of Columbia.

But we think it would he no difficult task to correct the "Whig" party of many inconsistencies faring as that of supporting Willie P. Mangum, who is any thing but a "Whig" in principle, where he may be in practices. Mr. Shepard dimited that Gen. Harrison, whose he characterised as a second rate man, was with him a choice of evils; Mr. Clay being his first choice, with whom he had rather be defeated, than succeed with a man of such preventions as Gen. Harrison. We know not how this matter is to ead, yet we doubt not it is but the opening of many scenes of the kind which will be enacted on discrent theatres in the political ward.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE. Which we lay before our readers this wee vill command the attention and enruest cons on of all parties. It is a document of great is erest and much ability, written in a dignified, for cible, and clear style. The present dent who stood by him in the late contest for printhe assurance that the Foreign Relati the United States are maintained with uninter-rupted amity and good feeling; that we are in per-fect peace with all the world; without any controversy to disturb the most friendly relations between our Government and the other great powers, except the affair of the North Eastern boundary, with England, which has been so far conducted in a spirit of amicable settlement, and has now the prospect of being adjusted without serious difficulty. The President, in reference to this matter says: " From the undoubted disposition of both parties to Resolu bring the matter to an early conclusion, I look with entire confidence to a prompt and satisfactory termination of the negotiation

In tracing the history of his administration and showing the policy that has directed it, the President establishes an unanswerable and perfectly conclusive refutation of the calumnies with which he has been so recklessly assailed, and gives a dignified vindication of the great measures which have called down upon his head the unmitigated have called down upon his bond the unmitigated disposed to transact business; as an evidence of this fury of partisan attacks. The bill to locate the Judges, has been lost in the Hause. Mr. H. C. Jones made a speech against it. We do not pretend to know much about the matter but the plan of location, seemed to us an injudicious innovation on the old one.

We alluded last week to some "family jars" which had disturbed the peace of the Whig association. The speech of Mr. Shephard producing the same, was replied to by Mr. Chagman of Buncombe, with some asperity; a re-joinder made in return by Mr. Shepard, which tells some homotruths of the conduct of Whiggery in general and in the Sanatorial election particularly. Mr. Shepard which tells some homotruths of the conduct of Whiggery in general and in the Sanatorial election particularly. Mr. Shepard which this caucus to elect Senators. It is only another illustration of the admirable conformity of their practice to their professions.

The election of two Senators from one town in the West, has occasioned some dissatisfaction of the Whig in the East, and not without reason, we totak. It does look a little like monophising all the "sprile."

Well, we wish the divisions of the party at Raleigh, as well out at their enert as the Kilhesiny combatents of renowned memory.

Facts.—"Curran, mys some paper, usually picked up his facts in a case from the statements of the opposite counsel. Wonder how he would have succeeded in picking us tasts from a Whig speech !"

OT The Report of the Secretary of the Treasury is an able and interesting document, from which we intend next week to make some extracts. From this, it seems that the available balance remaining in the Treasury, on the 30th of December instant, will be $1,580. The Secretary says that the revenue next year will be amply sufficient to meet all the ordinary expenses of the Government, in the gradual reduction of which, as for the last three years, there ought to be a continuance.

A southly paper densial to the Tanpersone, Reference Published at Asheville, N. C., and alited BY B. R. M'ANALLY.

A Temperature Convention that was held at this place early in Eleptomber, resolved on publishing e paper of the above title and character, and appeared Dr. John Dickson and D. R. M'Anally to conduct it. Fronthe many pressing engagements, Dr. Dichnon already inst, he deems it impresticable for him to be recognized as one of the editors, though he will eleverally use all his influence otherwise, to promote its increast; the subscriber therefore, proceeds to issue this Prospectus in his own manne, with a hope that he will be nided in the undertaking, by all the friends of the Temperance cause throughout the country, and that the paper may soon have an extensive circulation.

Friends of the Temperance Counce! to you we make cause throughout the country, and that the paper may soon have an extensive circulation.

Friends of the Temperance Cause! to you we make a most carnest appeal—while thousands upon thou sends of dollars are annually expended at thestres, at circuses, at the race track, at groceries, while no passe are spaind, the luxury of retirement and ease foregone, and no labor deemed too severe to advance the interestant political aspirants, can you not do something in a cause that must be dear to every true patriot, philan thropist, and christian! Recollect there are but few, very few, such papers in all the Bouthers country.—The Western part of North Carolina, the Western part of Virginia, and the Embers part of Tennessee particularly, need a periodical ef this kind, and it is for you now to say whether they shall have it.

The very low price at which it was fixed by the Convention, will make it necessary, that a very large subscription be had, before the publication of it can be justified.

The Western Carolina Temperance Advocate will be published on a medium sheet, in quarto form, each number making eight pages, and will be furnished a the very low price of Pifty Cents a copy. Where single copies are taken, the payment must be made invertably upon the reception of the first number.

Prospectus for the Congressional Globe and Appendix

Prospectus for the Congressional Globe and Appendix.

These works will be published by us, during the approaching session of Congress. They have had such a wide circulation in the United States, and their usefulness and chespiess are an universally acknowledged, that we doesn it unnecessary to give a detailed account of what the future numbers will contain. Suffice it to say, that they will be invaluable, to all who feel an interest in the proceedings of Congress. No other publication beet them so full, nor half so cheep. It is, indeed, the chespest publication in the United States—perhaps in the world. Our position at the seat of Government, enables us to print them at so low a rate. We are compelled to publish the proceedings of Congress in detail, for our daily paper. This done, it requires, comparatively, but a small expense to change them to the form of the Congressional Globe and Appendix. If it were not for these circumstances, we could not publish them for hour times the sum charged in some parts of the United States, the white paper, upon which these works are printed, would sell for as much as we charge for the publications.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two blouses and the speeches of the members condensed.—The yeas and analys on all important subjects are given. It is published as fast as the business of the two blouses afformmation sixteen royal quarto pages, of small type. We expect to publish three numbers for every two weeks of the season.
